Dog's Barks Save Life of Former Marion Resident

Mrs. Marion Koogler McNay, former Marion resident, recently had a narrow escape in a fire at her home at San Antonio, Tex., according to word received yesterday by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Addie McNay of 219 West Church street.

An account of the accident as reported in a San Antonio newspaper follows:

"Mrs. Marion Koogler McNay, San Antonio artist and author, was saved from a flaming death by the frantic barking of her Scotch watchdog, Kay, which aroused her from a deep sleep in her bed, which had caught fire apparently from a spark of a cigarette.

"Mrs. McNay said she retired Thursday at her home on the Austin highway in Sunset Hills, at the edge of Alamo Heights, and had smoked a cigarette before going to sleep.

"I was dreaming of Brunhilde, the Wagner heroine of the Ring of the Nibelung operas, who

REAL LOVE SONGS DON'T CLICK

The singing Andrews sisters of radio and stage, Patsy, Maxene and LaVerne, (left to right, above) pop into the news as plans are made for Patsy, 20, and Maxene, 22, to get married over the protest of their Orthodox Greek father, Peter, who is free on bond on a charge of having a pistol without a permit. Police broke into the Andrews' apartment on an anonymous tip that the father waved a pistol while trying to convince his daughters not to try to harmonize music and marriage.

February To Bring Unusual Display of Planets To View

By DR. EVERETT L. YOWELL,
Director University of Cincinnati
Observatory.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 2.—During February, the sun moves northward nine and one-half degrees and the length of day increases 56 minutes, the sun rising 33 minutes earlier and setting 33 minutes later at the end of the month than at the beginning.

The moon is new February 8, and full, February 23. Its first quarter occurs February 29. But in England and Europe, due to the difference in time, the last quarter occurs on March 1, and only three different quarters occur in February. In Greenwich time (legal in England), the last quarter occurs January 31 at 3 p. m. and a month later, March 1, at 2:35 a. m.

The Moon's Course
The moon is nearest to the earth February 23, 232,000 miles away, and farthest away February 10, 252,000 miles. It will pass Mercury February 8; Venus, February 11; Jupiter, February 12; and Mars and Saturn, February 13. On the night of February 11, the moon is between Venus and Jupiter; on the night of February 13, it will be between Saturn and Mars.

We have a very unusual group of planets visible in the western sky in February. With all of the planets visible to the naked eye for the first time in many years, Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus, and Mercury will be west of the meridian when the sun sets.

At the beginning of the month, we find them in this order: Venus, Jupiter, Mars, and Saturn. Mercury is too close to the sun to be visible. Venus is nearly two magnitudes brighter than Jupiter and Saturn is half a magnitude brighter than Mars.

During the month, Mercury moves east faster than the sun and reaches elongation February 28, when it is 15 degrees away from the sun. We may begin to watch for it after February 20, when it sets nearly an hour later than the sun.

Venus and Jupiter will be together February 20, and Mars will have passed Saturn. At the end of the month, the planets will be in this order: Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn, Mars. In addition, Uranus, invisible to the naked eye, is less than an hour east of Mars. Only Pluto and Neptune are absent from this group of major planets in the western sky.

Mars is in conjunction with Saturn February 13, and Venus is in conjunction with Jupiter February 28. It is interesting to note how these planets change their relative places.

Plenty of Stars
Our bright winter constellations are now in the eastern sky. Near 7 p. m., we find Taurus east of the meridian. Southeast of it is Orion, the three second-magnitude stars in the belt pointing toward Sirius. About the same distance above the horizon as Sirius, but farther north, lies Procyon in Canis Minor.

Almost directly east lies Gemini containing Pollux, a first-magnitude star, and Castor, a second-magnitude star. Between the twins and the Zenith lies Capella in Auriga.

This group of constellations contains seven first-magnitude stars (there are only 30) and 13 second-magnitude stars, making 11 the most luminous group of constellations we see.

Timber Mining Industry Revived on Atlantic Coast

By The Associated Press

CAPE MAY, N. J., Feb. 2.—Increasing demands for lumber have revived the almost forgotten industry of cedar mining in the misty coastal bogs of south Jersey and Delaware.

Snoring donkey engines are making out of the mire the long-buried trunks of giant cedar trees that geologists have said grew ages ago in mighty forests along parts of the Atlantic coast.

The buried forest has been "probed" for usable timber before—as early as 50 years ago—but lumbermen today say "they didn't even scratch the surface then." They estimate that beneath the roots of the scrub pine and stunted white oak are "buried cedar trees—acres of them."

The fallen cedars, some estimated to have lived 250 to 300 years ago, lie three to 15 feet beneath the surface. Over them is a coating of peat and stained cedar water. The mud in which they are buried has preserved them—although they are heavier and darker than cedar obtained from standing trees.

Raymond Bozarth, veteran south Jersey woodsman who has 20 men "mining" his swamps, says most of the cedar goes into shingles—but some is "cured" and used for planking.

The "miners" hunt the hidden timber with "progers," long iron rods to jab into the soft mud. Once a trunk is located a cable is run beneath it, and the donkey engine pulls it out like a huge, stunted tooth. Sawmills operate nearby.

Some trunks measure six feet in diameter. Bozarth says such a trunk yields up to 1,500 board feet worth $150.

What felled the trees still puzzles the lumbermen. Bozarth thinks a tidal wave swept in from the Atlantic, tearing them down countless years ago. He says the buried trunks all point the same direction—inland.

Geologists have voiced the theory that the trees fell naturally because the muddy ground did not afford their roots sufficient grip to withstand storms.

FARMERS' WEEK ENDS AT COLUMBUS TODAY

Rural Church Day Brings Session to Close.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—Rural church day brought Ohio State university annual Farmers' Week to a close today with attendance expected to reach a record of 13,000. Nearly 11,500 persons registered for the first four days.

Dr. Herman N. Morse, secretary of the Presbyterian national missions board, was principal speaker on the church program.

Farmers heard a market expert predict yesterday that the European war might boom American agriculture.

"So far favorable is the combination of economic conditions that a relative small increase in purchases from abroad might maintain a rather long period of business activity for a rather long period, providing the non-economic forces are also favorable," H. B. Price, of the University of Kentucky markets department said.

He said wheat prices were extremely sensitive to war and that corn, oats and barley producers probably would receive small direct benefits. Wool prices probably will advance, he said.

Wheeler McMillan of Philadelphia, editor of "Farm Journal," told the farmers that recovery would come only when they could "supply every need of the American market which agricultural resources and skill, supplemented by scientific and industrial technique, are capable of producing or learning to produce."

THREE STATES FACE FLAT GLASS STRIKES

Seek to Break Deadlock in Contract Parley.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 2.—Union and management representatives, spurred by scattered strikes in three states, scheduled new conferences today in an effort to break a deadlock in negotiations for 1940 contracts in the flat glass industry.

Irwin D. Shelter of Columbus, O., president of the C.I.O. Flat Glass Workers of America, said no strike had been called and indicated he would have "something very definite" to announce today.

Fred Kelghtley, labor relations director for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., and spokesman for the management negotiators, declined comment on progress of the conference.

The previous contract expired at midnight Wednesday. Approximately 1,600 workers walked out of Jeannette, Arnold and Belle Vernon, Pa., plants of the American Window Glass Co.; an estimated 550 quit work at the Adamston Flat Glass Co. and Rolland Plate Glass Co. plants at Clarksburg, W. Va.; and about 300 production employees walked out at the Harding Glass Co., Fort Smith, Ark.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1940

Groundhog Day in 1940

THE groundhog legend, having been over-worked by people who need something to write and talk about, might as well be left in cold storage this year. There's a more important matter than whether to be decided.

When our little furred friend takes a squint at the situation this year and decides whether it's worth the effort to give up retirement, commentators who claim to be able to tell about the third term by nature lore will have a golden opportunity.

If Mr. G. scuttles back into his hole in the ground that will mean no third term activity. If he sees his shadow and deduces that everything is going to be rosy now, that will mean everything is set for the big push.

This will put at rest once and for all the pricking suspense of the third term situation. President Roosevelt will say it's ridiculous, of course, but he must admit that it's ridiculous the other way too. His friends, his party and the considerable horde whose jobs depend on his decision can see no logic in postponement. If their future is going to ride on whimsy, they've a right to remind Mr. Roosevelt that the groundhog at least specifies the exact day on which he will tell all.

Lightning at Sea

WITH a salt shaker in each hand to season what Berlin says and what London says, a neutral observer still can feel safe in assuming that events in the war at sea have taken a momentous turn.

Germany has brought into full play the third of its available weapons against shipping—the bomber. Hitherto, emphasis has been mostly on submarines and mines, both of which the British say they can handle. At least they proved in the previous war that new ship construction and the convoy system, together with other counter-measures, made it impossible for Germany to win control of the North sea by means available then.

Bombers are everything else. While it remains true that some new weapon of attack creates a weapon of defense, there is no sign yet that a defense for sea bombing has been developed. It is as though merchantment all had been brought within shore artillery range. Bombers make shipping in the North sea as vulnerable as though it were passing through the Dardanelles or the Straits of Gibraltar.

The salt water "blitzkrieg" promises to become the biggest thing turned loose in Europe's newest war.

Travelogue

THE more it's considered the more merit there is in an offhand proclamation by President Roosevelt recently that 1940 is going to be "Travel America Year."

This would not be a good year to travel, say in Finland or the other Baltic countries. Germany is, of course, out of the question. Likewise Great Britain, France, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Sweden, Norway, Russia, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Turkey and probably Italy, Switzerland and Spain—to throw in a few extras.

So the proclamation is sound. "Travel America" is not a wishful thought, but straightforward recognition of a condition in international affairs. This is the time for Americans, North and South, to get better acquainted. American travelers have left hundreds of millions in the hands of the European brethren to help settle their unfavorable trade balances with the United States. The time has come to do likewise for the good neighbors on this side of the Atlantic.

Happiness

A PROPOS of atrocity charges being leveled at German administrators of the fuller, richer life in Nazi-occupied Poland, a declaration by Arthur Greiser, German governor of Poznan, Polish district annexed by the Reich, is in order.

Gov. Greiser, distinguished photographically by a firm jaw and a glint in his eye, says in an Associated Press interview that the Poles are "much happier under German rule than they ever were under the Polish regime."

What is happiness? Definitions differ. To an American it is one of three companion states—life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. To an Orthodox Nazi, happiness might be more like Alexander Pope's, much quoted definition: "Virtue alone is happiness below."

On the virtue basis (Nazi virtue) it's probable the Poles are as happy here below as they can be. If some of them are being assisted to go above, it's done, no doubt, for the sake of giving them more happiness than they could respond to otherwise.

Today and Tomorrow

Proposal Made To Retain Benefits of Trade Treaty Program Without Continuing Old Plan.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ENOUGH has been said in the debate over the Hull trade agreements to show, it seems to me, that the question has been presented to congress in a way which can lead to no good result. There is being brewed, quite unnecessarily, a tempest in a teapot, and in this dispute, regardless of the final outcome, every one will have lost much more than he has gained. Yet there is, I think, a simple solution on which reasonable men might agree.

Walter Lippmann

The executive power to make trade agreements expires this coming June. Mr. Hull is asking congress to extend this power for another term of years. Now, the evident fact is that even if Mr. Hull obtains a renewal of his powers, there is no likelihood whatever that for the duration of the war he will be able to negotiate new trade agreements of any importance. The principle of the Hull agreements has been carried on far as it is possible to carry it in the world. It is today, indeed, the unavoidable consequence of the war on the belligerents and on the neutrals must be that their foreign trade will be brought more and more thoroughly under government control. Therefore, in so far as Mr. Hull, or his successor, uses these powers, it will be to remove trade barriers in the interests of free and peaceable commerce, but to make detailed readjustments in the existing agreements. In war time there is no possible escape from the increasing regimentation of foreign trade. Mr. Hull is, therefore, asking for legal powers that during the war he will not be able to exercise for the promotion of freer trade.

Shouldn't Be Abandoned

It is equally evident that the principle of the Hull agreements cannot be abandoned by the United States without delivering an almost irreparable blow to the hope of a good reconstruction after the war. If at this time the United States congress were to put itself on record against the ideal of promoting the peaceable exchange of goods, it is difficult to see where men can hope to find a decent material foundation for the establishment of peace.

Thus it would appear that Mr. Hull is asking for powers that he cannot exercise in war time. Yet if these powers are destroyed by congress, there will be destroyed the best hope of reconstruction after the war.

So I venture to suggest the following solution: that the existing controversy be adjourned and that a fresh start be made; that the proposal to renew the powers be accompanied by an undertaking: not to negotiate important new agreements during the war; to use these powers only to make specific readjustments in existing agreements to meet special and unforeseen war conditions; to make these readjustments only after consulting the congressional leaders; and that congress be invited to set up a standing committee on commercial policy during and after the war for the purpose of studying and advising the executive on the complex questions arising out of war controls, foreign exchange, gold, and the like.

Plan Proposed

This is, I submit, a practical and constructive way to deal with the real question in the controversy. It would put an end to the horrible spectacle of the Republican party committing itself to a commercial policy which shows no signs of enlightenment. It would put an end to the very real danger that a sound and necessary principle will be repudiated in an election year under the pressure of special interests and reckless partisan politicians. It will put an end to a political struggle in which, to win his victory, Mr. Hull may have to pay an exorbitant price—in pre-occupation with partisan politics, in the deterioration of the work of the state department. It will vindicate the principle and yet it meets squarely the reasonable objections of fair-minded opponents: that under these exceptional conditions, trade agreements have political implications and that congress ought to be consulted about them.

Above all, it will place the whole matter in its true relationship to the practical realities.

It is evident, I think, that foreign trade cannot be conducted in war time according to Mr. Hull's principles. There is a shortage of shipping; therefore, cargo space is rationed. There is a shortage of foreign exchange; therefore purchases abroad are rationed. Some of the belligerents are blockaded. The others, which control the seas, must reduce the imports that are not absolutely necessary and must expand the exports that are needed for the war. So there can be no free trade; on the contrary buying has to be conducted as a government monopoly. Moreover, the buying and the selling cannot be done commercially, that is by buying in the cheapest market and selling in the dearest. It has to be done politically: so as to injure the enemy and to support allies and potential allies and wavering neutrals.

So if Mr. Hull assured congress that he would not negotiate new agreements during the war, he would merely be recognizing the facts.

Dean of the Senate

Cotton Ed Smith of N. C. Fervent Hater of New Deal.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith has served 31 years in the senate, rising from "baby" member to dean, and thinks he could have had a lot more fun raising cotton or cattle or pigs.

South Carolina has been sending him to the senate ever since he was first sworn in in 1909. That was a year behind Senator Borah, whose death left Smith the oldest member of the senate in point of service, although in years he is junior to Senator Glass of Virginia. Smith is 75, Glass 82.

But age hasn't modified Smith's southern sentiments. He is 200 pounds of southern wrath at everything the New Deal represents.

"I served under five Presidents," he said, "before I had to run into an outfit like this, challenging the sovereignty of the states and violating the Constitution at every step."

"Show me where the Constitution says anything about the wage-hour bill or social security." He isn't a tall man, but massive. His head is topped by a thick growth of gray hair. His face is deeply lined, and divided into squares and patches, like a farm, while in the middle is a brush of moustache you could hunt quail in.

He gets so angry at what he calls the New Deal's "catering" to the Negroes that like Donald Duck, he almost bites himself.

"I have deeper love for our colored people than anybody in that outfit up there," he shouted across his desk, "but I've had experience with them and I know where they should be kept."

A Northern Government

Referring to the New Deal as "that outfit up there," is the bitterest denunciation he can think of because to him it represents some contrivance of government from north of the Mason-Dixon line that no true American will endure longer than he has to. Deep in him a contented feeling that the New Deal will be thrown higher than a kite next November and he is confident he had a pioneering part in its defeat. He was on the "purge list" in 1938 but he came through with flying colors in what he described

Help for Refugees

"Assimilation Centers" Help Make U. S. Land of Opportunity.

THIS is a story of charity—not charity that merely gives alms to the unfortunate, but of charity that helps unfortunates provide for themselves.

It is the story of an institution helping to bring America—the language and customs—to victims of foreign persecution who have found a haven in the United States.

It is the story of how Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, wife of the noted New York rabbi, with support of the women's division of the American Jewish Congress, has tackled the gigantic problem of assimilation of refugees.

In 1934, Mrs. Wise, president of the women's division, visited Europe and saw the intense suffering among many thousands fleeing from the Nazi terror in Germany. She realized that soon many would be seeking entrance into the United States.

On her return she prevailed on the Jewish Institute of Religion to "lead" her a vacant building. Without funds she induced contractors, plasterers, painters and carpenters to donate their work to make the building habitable, then persuaded department store owners to donate furnishings. The new institution was called "Congress House."

Soon the flood of refugees began to arrive as many as could get in under the quota. They as "the dirtiest campaign" of his experience.

"My victory set the pace," he said.

He knew how to conduct a campaign that would win in South Carolina. At the 1938 convention in Philadelphia he led the South Carolina delegation out of the hall when a Negro preacher arose to give the benediction. The story he told about that affair echoed and re-echoed through the state in the campaign of 1938.

He came to the senate in what he calls the "days of the giants." Names like Elihu Root, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jonathan P. Dolliver, Albert Beveridge, Joseph Weldon Bailey, Nelson W. Aldrich and John Sharp Williams stand out in his mind far above the present legislative crop.

He remembers the first speech he made. It was against a ship subsidy bill. He said that if tariffs were lowered it would not be necessary to subsidize ships. "They built up the protective tariff so high that while we could send our ships abroad loaded they had to return empty."

Senate "In A Mess"

He voted for war in 1917 and would do it again under like circumstances, "but not to send our boys overseas."

The "greatest speech" he ever heard in the senate was given in 20 minutes by Senator Bailey in 1913 on the Constitution. Next to that he puts a speech by Senator Borah about three years ago against the anti-lynching bill.

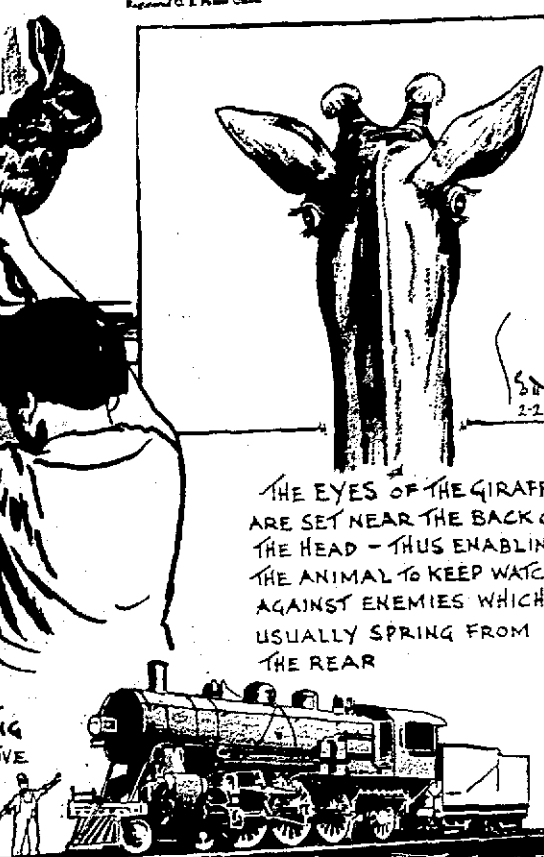

"He upheld the right of a sovereign state to police its own people," said Cotton Ed.

Smith is scared to fight that battle all over again this year. Of legislation he has sponsored he likes best a pre-war amendment to the federal reserve act permitting farmers to get currency secured by their imperishable crops, like cotton and wheat. That way they paid no interest. The law since has been repealed. But his bill regulating cotton trading is still on the books and he considers that pretty fine.

He owns a 2,000-acre plantation in South Carolina and in his library is the land grant covering it, issued by King George III in 1747. His wife Annie Farley Smith, daughter of a Confederate scout, wanted him to retire to the farm in 1938, "but when I told her I was under fire on the purge list, she said, 'Go in there and fight.' That's the best fight I ever made."

He says he has never seen the senate in "such a mess" as now.

"It doesn't want to go any farther in the direction it has gone, but it is afraid to turn back."

Reflections. Mostly Melancholy

This Column's Anniversary. Perhaps Someone Likes It.

By DAMON RUNYON

THIS column is three years old, certainly. That is not old for a column. It is so all-fired young. In three years of being a column, we suppose a fellow who has found out where he is at, but frankly don't know.

However, we do not despair. Give us more time and we may come upon a column that is reliably informed some columnists who have been writing columns for two or three times three years are still confused.

Among the many column writers of the land, we fear we are neither fish, nor flesh, nor good red Columbia river salmon. We are not a political commentator. We are not a gossip guy. We seem to have no definite status and something that makes us feel lonesome. No one has even bothered to imitate us, which, though we say it with a nonchalant, almost disquieting, There must be no radically wrong with a column that imitates.

We spoke to one of our friends about this. He said it might be due to a fact that seemed to come natural to us, it was difficult to reproduce. He said it, "faculty of reducing columnar content to remarkable intellectual low."

HE SAID he read the big old blun columnists and was invariably struck by the thought of how much more they about everything than he did, but he would turn to us, reflecting: "Well, anyway, here is one guy who less than I do."

Our friend said he imagined most readers felt the same way. We were in a public benefactor. He said we must be a tonic to any man or woman who might be deficient in knowledge, because reading us they could see at once that he is a lot worse off than he is. We like to feel we are doing good. Little we like to feel we are doing good.

We must confess that in the begin we wanted to be one of those big old blun columnists. We wanted to have a national and world affairs. We wanted to be a statesman. In fact, we wrote several and wordy columns along that line, but day Meyer the barber was honing out and he absently remarked that this funny word.

"WHAT'S funny about it?" we asked. "Well," said Meyer the barber, "I say that a guy like you should be giving problems that the master minds of I have been unable to solve."

"What do you mean—a guy like us?" manded indignantly.

"Oh, nothing," said Meyer the barber, "your hair needs a little trimming." But we could see Meyer's point, and then we have not tried much blunder. It requires more background and education to be a blunderbuser than can muster. Besides, it must be a terrible worrying about heavy stuff all the time trying to explain things that are a even to God.

IN THE recapitulation of our three years we feel our stellar triumph is the fact we not missed a single day of production record for us across a long stretch of paper service.

We admit there was a reason for our prodigious industry. The sports editor of our members of the sports department which we formerly toiled got up a pool we started writing this column on the notion of our conservative, practical chap who dreads five days thought he cinch. Another who pulled six months for a dime. A very close friend held it for 10 months and we wanted to win for him.

It is true that not all those columns were published. Occasionally a would give one the heebies. We never into the reasons but once. Then he answered: "Because it is worse than we could not think of a rebuttal to never inquired again. But published the columns were written, and we feel completely refuted the old adage of the department: 'Count that day won who descending sun sees Runyon's copy it run.'"

WE THANK those readers who have kind enough to give us encouragement through these three years. We forgive who have spoken harshly to us, including fellow in London, N. J., who recently mentioning numerous shortcomings. I our chief fault is that we do not use torch enough on the misfeasances of the He said we ought to do more bawling sinners.

Well, we have thought of that too every time we get all steamed up and to blasé somebody for mortal error to reflect. There but for the grace goes Runyon.

U.S. NEWSMAN FACES CHARGE IN JAPAN

Writer Accused of Violating Army Criminal Code.

TOKYO, Feb. 2.—James H. Young of Springfield, Ill., correspondent for International News Service, was charged formally today with violating that part of the army criminal code relating to dissemination of false and slanderous rumors, foreign office spokesman Yakichiro Suma disclosed.

It was not known whether the case would come before a civil or military court, but the latter was said to be probable. Under the army criminal code, separate from civil law, the maximum penalty in the event of conviction would be three years in prison.

Since his arrest Jan. 21, Young has been questioned almost daily at metropolitan police headquarters.

Suma said the correspondent was charged "firstly, with sending from Shanghai and elsewhere to newspapers and magazines in the United States and Japan some 35 extremely slanderous news reports regarding the Japanese forces in various parts of China; and, secondly, with spreading fabrications and rumors regarding actions of Japanese forces in various parts of China among Japanese and foreigners in Tokyo between Jan. 6 and 19."

Mercury in Ohio Drops Again; 7 Above Zero Here

Two inches of snow and sleet swept into Marion with colder temperatures last night, making driving hazardous and sending the mercury on another nose dive after several days of "normal" winter weather.

Seven degrees above zero was the coldest thermometer reading during the night and yesterday's high was 34, according to Weather Observer E. H. Raffensperger. The temperature range in Marion a year ago was between 42 and 55 degrees.

Continued cold appeared to be in store with the weatherman's forecast of cloudy tonight and Saturday with not much change in temperature.

The mercury ranged between seven and twenty above in Ohio today. The state highway department reported all roads excepting in Cincinnati, Middletown and Dayton areas "slippery and hazardous."

CHINESE EDUCATOR SPEAKS AT CHURCH

Dr. Roberta Ma Makes Plea for Help of Countrymen.

A good-sized audience heard Dr. Roberta Ma, young Chinese Christian educator, tell of conditions of her people in China, at Calvary Evangelical church last night. Later she voiced a plea for help for China, bringing out that a contribution of three cents a day would save a life in that country.

Dr. Ma praised Chiang Kai-shek as a Christian leader and was sympathetic and tolerant towards the invading Japanese. She expressed the opinion that the militaristic element of Japan is responsible for much of the suffering and invasion of China.

Dr. Ma came to Marion from Westerville where yesterday she spoke before an audience of 1,200. She was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Bell of Bellefontaine avenue while here. Today she went to Toledo where she will remain over the week-end.

She was costumed in her native dress and brought into her talk much of the colorful background of her country, together with stories of the suffering and persecution. She is the third generation of her family to have embraced the Christian religion, and received her bachelor, master and doctor's degrees at the University of Texas.

Dr. Ma came to Marion under the auspices of the Marion Ministerial association.

GOV. BRICKER CITES MCKINLEY RECOVERY

DAYTON, O., Feb. 2.—Declaring that prosperity came to the United States under William McKinley because he kept his promises, Gov. Bricker told a McKinley day banquet crowd here last night that "the record of the New Deal is a succession of broken promises."

TWO GROUPS PLAN MARION AIR SHOW

Junior C. of C. and Aviation Boosters Set Date.

Plans for sponsoring an air show at the Marion airport next summer were discussed last night in a joint meeting of the Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Marion Aviation Boosters club at the Junior C. of C. clubrooms on East Center street.

The show will be sponsored jointly by the two groups and June 16 was set as the tentative date. A committee composed of members of the two organizations will be appointed to work out arrangements.

The group also discussed conditions at the Marion airport and plans were discussed for a broad program to obtain improvements and to develop public interest in the airport. Several members of the aviation club pointed out that the airport is ideally located and is one of the driest in the state. However, they declared, the grounds are now badly in need of improvements because the city makes no appropriations for the airport's upkeep. They estimated that the grounds could be kept in good condition by the expenditure of about $25 a month.

PUBLISHER DECLARES PRESS FACES THREAT

Ohioans Told Many Desire To Muzzle Papers.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—The National Editorial Association's president warned Ohio publishers today that "thoughts of a lot of people are running toward throttling" American freedom of the press.

Howard W. Palmer of Greenwich, Conn., publisher and head of N.E.A., in address prepared for the Ohio Newspaper Association convention, declared:

"We face attacks upon our solvency through unreasonable restrictions on our shop. We face a hostile group of bureaucrats at Washington who would attack us by cutting off a large part of our advertising revenue."

Citing a proposed inquiry by the federal trade commission into the effect of national advertising on distribution costs, Palmer added:

"It will take all of the resources of all the newspapers, large and small, to combat such unfair attacks. And yet that may not be the worst. We live in a day when the thoughts of a lot of people are running toward throttling the press in many other ways."

There are many in Washington who would delight in seeing a situation arise which would give an excuse for muzzling the press."

Study of plans for mobilizing American manpower in the event of war, Palmer said, showed that "certainly our vaunted freedom of the press would disappear."

The British press was muzzled, but definitely when the empire drifted toward war, Palmer added, although it seemed unbelievable this could happen in the United States.

"But we have been timid and inert of the face of attacks from other directions," he cautioned.

Buckeye publishers were cautioned yesterday by Dr. Howard Bevis, Ohio State university president, to avoid "undermining confidence in American institutions."

"Newspapers are vital to public education," Dr. Bevis told Ohio publishers at the opening yesterday of a two-day meeting. "The press in nearly every instance has been exceedingly helpful in disseminating education."

The right to criticize, he said, was not only the "constitutional privilege" of newspapers but also their "professional duty."

The Ohio Newspaper Association, Select List of Ohio Dailies, Associated Ohio Dailies and Buckeye Press Group were among organizations holding business sessions.

Associated Ohio Dailies re-elected R. C. Snyder, Sandusky and Newark publisher, as president; Spencer Myers, Middletown Journal, vice president; Albert A. Dix, Martins Ferry Times, treasurer; and Frank Spencer, Newark Advocate, Secretary. Snyder, 53, several months, was unable to attend the meeting.

Today's luncheon program included addresses by R. C. Atkinson, Ohio unemployment compensation administrator, and Howard W. Palmer, president of the National Editorial association.

Gov. Bricker and Prof. Harold Cross of the Columbia School of Journalism will speak at a dinner tonight.

Balkans To Decide Attitude Toward Hitler and Allies

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The powerful Balkan entente—Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey—is meeting today in Belgrade to consider its attitude towards the war between Herr Hitler and the allies, and if he could sit in at the secret sessions we likely should have a much better idea of the trend of this conflict.

Publicly there may be little more than reaffirmation of neutrality. Privately decisions may be taken which will have a strong bearing on the outcome of the European upheaval.

So much do the Balkans mean both strategically and as a fruitful source of supplies that it wouldn't be surprising to see this rugged zone again become a cockpit for major military operations of the chief belligerents.

Ally Concentrate Army

Only this week there was confirmation that the Anglo-French allies had concentrated a powerful army in the near east to meet any possible German thrust through the Balkans. It could be used against Russia as well, should occasion arise.

Berlin yesterday charged that the British hoped possibilities of spreading the war would arise at the entente party. Nazi Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop also declared that neither Germany nor Russia has any intention of carrying the conflict to the Balkans.

Whether the entente will feel reassured by Von Ribbentrop's promise would seem very doubtful, especially in view of what is happening in Poland and Finland.

The embattled powers are watching every move of the entente meeting, and the atmosphere surrounding the uneasy conference is sultry. For effect the allies are saying, and the Nazis are warning, "come with us and don't get entangled with the other side—or we won't be responsible for the consequences."

The question of boundaries has been of special interest to Rumania and Yugoslavia, both of which are fat as butter with lands acquired from neighbors.

Bulgaria Stays Out

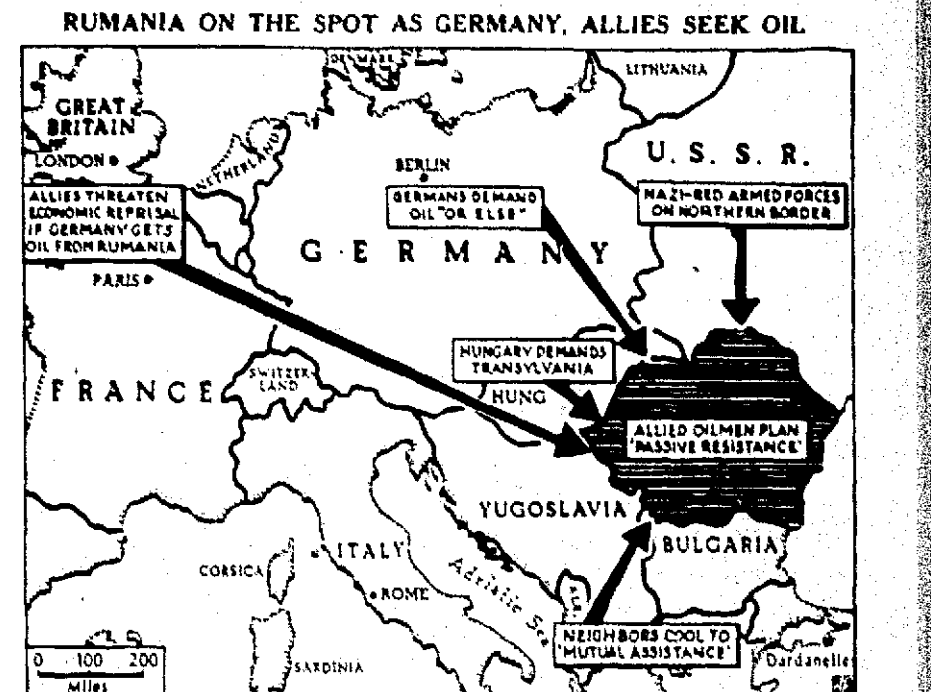

The only Balkan state not in the entente (apart from Albania, which has been swallowed by Italy) is Bulgaria. This hardy land of tough warriors lost territory to Rumania, Yugoslavia and Greece, and has refused to join any fraternity designed to perpetuate those losses.

The chief business of the entente party will be to achieve unity of purpose among all the states, including Bulgaria. They must get set to meet any contingency.

There can be small doubt at this juncture that the Balkans want to remain neutral. This won't be easy in view of the tremendous interest of both Germany and the allies in controlling these fiery states.

The position of Rumania is the most critical of any, chiefly because of her petroleum. Germany is demanding oil, and the allies are warning Rumania not to give it.

Unhappy is the big country without oil these days, but much more unhappy is the little country which has it. The plight of Rumania, which threatens all the Balkans, will figure largely in the entente discussions.

JUNIOR HIGH CLUB GUESTS OF KIWANIS

K-Y Members Present Program at Luncheon Meeting.

Members of the K-Y club, a Y. M. C. A. organization at Edison Junior High school, were guests at a luncheon meeting of the Marion Kiwanis club at Hotel Marion yesterday.

Members of the club presented a short program in which they reviewed work done by the club since its organization two and a half years ago. The aims of the club, they explained, is to develop the mind, soul and body and to work out a vocational guidance program for its members.

Guests also included Stuart Shipman, leader of the K-Y club, Robert Hicks, boys' work secretary at the Y, and E. N. Hale, general secretary of the Y.

Elmer Weimer, chairman of the Kiwanis club's youth activities committee which helps maintain the K-Y club, presided at the meeting.

KAISER THINKS ALL SHOULD WHIP REDS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The man who led Germany into a World war in 1914—Kaiser Wilhelm—thinks Germany and the allies should declare peace immediately, then join Finland to "rid the world of Bolshevism."

The former ruler, now in exile at Doorn, Holland, gave these sentiments in a letter mailed Jan. 16 to Poultony Bigelow, his American biographer.

Bigelow, making public the German's remarks, quoted him as saying:

"The magnificent stand of the Finns has smashed the nimbus of Bolshevism and set people thinking with the result that the wish for peace is gaining ground."

WOMAN OBJECTS TO WORKING WIVES

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 2.—Working wives, a woman politician leader asserted today, are a "menace to the public health, morals and general welfare."

"A wife's place is in the home," said Miss Florence Birmingham, president of the Massachusetts Women's Political club, in a prepared address before the Pennsylvania school directors association.

"To permit an estimated six million married women to hold jobs when their husbands are in well paid positions is a crime against justice..."

of normal, peacetime trade was first for discussion in the closed conference.

The plan appeared to be Rumania's desperate substitute for her original request for ironclad military guarantees from her partners, to be invoked if necessary against either Germany or Soviet Russia. It seemed plain Rumania could not win such promises.

The plan was supported by Rumania and Yugoslavia, according to reliable reports, as the best means of keeping the present battle of trade from turning into a battle of blood.

Turkey, bound to the British-French allies with mutual assistance treaties, and Greece, guaranteed against attack by the allies, were understood to be less enthusiastic.

Rumania also has received pledges from the allies of all support in their power to resist any threat to her independence, but these promises have not appreciably curbed her fears.

Perilous Position

Her position perhaps is the most perilous of all neutral states.

Turkish and Greek trade with Germany has greatly diminished since the war started, replaced by larger sales to the allies. For these nations to return to pre-war quotas might mean severe economic disturbances.

Thus anything agreed upon along the line of "economic neutrality" is likely to represent a compromise between the two northern Balkan states—Rumania and Yugoslavia—and the two other entente members who are further removed by geography from a possible German push.

The latest footnotes on the Balkan conference, reflecting chiefly on Rumania's position, came yesterday from Germany, Britain and Italy.

German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop's expression of assurance that Germany and Russia do not want to extend the war into the Balkans but rather are working to establish a "stable peace."

British disclosure of a policy of watchful waiting to see how far Rumania goes in satisfying German demands for oil.

The Italian press campaign urging territorial revision in the Balkans, chiefly on behalf of Hungary's claim upon Rumania for restoration of Transylvania.

DEMOCRATS SEEKING ADVICE OF DONAHAY

Ohio Leaders To Confer with Senator in Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Ohio Democratic leaders seeking the advice of Sen. Vie Donahay of formulation of state and national tickets for the 1940 election.

Informed sources said that the senior senator, who still has not announced his plans, would confer Monday with Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati and Mrs. Mildred Jaster, members of the national committee.

Other party leaders, including former Gov. Davey, were expected to be in Washington next week.

Associates of Donahay predict that he will seek re-election at the May primary.

Walter Heer, Franklin county chairman, who said he would decide within three weeks whether to seek the governorship, visited Donahay and Ohio house members yesterday.

Heer said his visit to Washington was primarily to seek legislation to permit the federal government to compel industries and states to control stream pollution.

A new controversy over enforcement provisions of stream pollution-control legislation was in prospect.

A senate-approved bill proposes a voluntary program among industries, states and the federal government. A house bill would make a program compulsory after five years of voluntary effort.

Agitation in behalf of the house bill was revived by Heer. A dispute over compulsory provisions bogged down pollution legislation last year.

U. S. AIR TRAVELERS FOUND IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 2.—Word was received here today that a missing plane with five Americans aboard had made a forced landing at Lagoa Mangueira due to a fuel shortage.

The government press department announced it had received a telegram from Porto Alegre that the plane, unreported for two days, was expected to reach that Brazilian port today.

The single-motored plane, without a radio, left Montevideo Wednesday on an easy stages flight here. Pilot James W. Allen of Ithaca, N. Y., a commercial aviator on vacation, had planned to stop at Porto Alegre, Brazil, 480 miles from Montevideo.

A Diesel switching engine equipped with a hydraulic torque converter has been constructed that has handled 100 empty freight cars on a three per cent grade.

OHIO DEMOCRATS TO SEEK PENSIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Ohio house Democrats decided today to seek federal officials to consider again the possibility of paying the state's claim for $1,300,000 in old age pension contributions withheld in October, 1936.

Representative Hunter (D) said the delegation would confer Monday with Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board in an effort to settle the claim without congressional or legal action.

Based without any money during a dispute with former Gov. James M. Cox, who charged that he used the state pension system for political purposes.

BRITISH BLOCKADE BACKED BY FRANCE

PARIS, Feb. 2.—France's blockade military in a communique today supported Britain's contention that the allies are within their rights in examining United States and other neutral mails in their search for contraband destined for Germany.

The communique said the allied countries are not asking that the allies be given a "sweeping" right to search the mails of all neutral countries, but that they are asking that the allies be given the right to search the mails of all neutral countries which are not members of the League of Nations.

The communique also said that the allies are not asking that the allies be given the right to search the mails of all neutral countries, but that they are asking that the allies be given the right to search the mails of all neutral countries which are not members of the League of Nations.

NO IRRITATION TO HANDS IN NEW SUDS FOR DISHES

Women find new type suds gives dishes and glassware amazing sparkle, yet hands stay soft because it is not a soap. Entirely different from even the finest soap or soap flakes because it contains no acid or alkali. If you have ever been ashamed of coarse, red hands... if you have ever wondered what robbed your fingers of their baby smoothness... chances are it's the alkali from the soap you use for washing dishes. That's why thousands of women are switching to Ved, the new soapless suds perfected by Colgate that contains no acid, no alkali to irritate the skin. It's startling how you can wash dishes time after time without a trace of the irritation to hands resulting from soaps. Ved is so easy on hands, women joyfully report it "takes the curse out of dishwashing." Glassware and china sparkle with glittering highlights, because Ved—unlike soap—cannot form soap-scurf to streak glassware and dishes. Ved is also the ideal suds for silk and woollen because it works perfectly in cold water and because it can't leave soap-scurf to make fresh colors dull and frowny-looking. Buy Ved today at any grocery. Made and guaranteed by Colgate-Palmolive-Pect Company.

BARRYMORE, WIFE KISS AND MAKE UP

But John Not Certain It's Reconciliation.

By The Associated Press. NEW YORK, Feb. 2 — John Barrymore, who never knows when a witty reconciliation may pop up in his face, had Broadway guessing today on his latest reunion with Elaine Barrie.

The star of "My Dear Children" kissed his wife No. 4 feverishly last night between acts of the play, an off-stage action which made the final curtain 25 minutes late.

A farewell kiss? "Like hell!" barked the great profile.

A reconciliation kiss? "How the hell do I know?" he said.

Then they were off to a night club where John spent an hour or more signing autographs and yelling at the performers.

They left there, and said they were going to do some more night spots but their limousine wound over Manhattan for some time, and finally disappeared in the direction of Long Island where Barrymore's temporary home is.

Diagram of forces brought into play to fight off an air raid.
By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor
NEW YORK—Anti-aircraft batteries, training their fire on enemy planes in the European war, work out problems of defense as carefully as a scientist tackles a stickler in higher mathematics.
Mechanized warfare has brought to the battlefield painstakingly prepared formulas for offense and defense.
Anti-aircraft guns are planted around vital districts to give a maximum coverage against raiders. The typical "aa" or "archie" (anti-aircraft) gun has a horizontal-vertical range of 3,000 yards and 18,000 feet. Batteries of four are set up so their fire overlaps.
At least 10 batteries would be necessary to protect vital areas of a city the size of Washington. Their exact effectiveness has not been determined even by the nations now under arms.

Youth at Carey Recovering After Narrow Escape
Special to The Star
CAREY, Feb. 2.—Morrie Cooper, 20, is recovering at his home here today after undergoing the harrowing experience of being virtually "buried alive."
He was buried almost two hours under three feet of crushed stone following a cave-in at the Carey plant of the National Lime & Stone Co. Wednesday afternoon.
Summoned by Harold Shaw, other plant employees worked feverishly for nearly two hours before they extricated Cooper. He was conscious but painfully bruised.
Company officials attributed his escape to the fact that when he fell into the pit he landed upright and the stone, frozen in large chunks, permitted air to reach him. He had gone to an outside stone pit to break loose a bridge formed over the top of a pile by snow and ice. He was on top of the bridge when it caved in, causing him to fall about 10 feet.
Cooper suffered from cold and shock. In addition to painful bruises, he was removed to his home in the Goff invalid coach and was attended by a physician.

Your Income Tax

WHEN TO REPORT INCOME FROM SALARIES, WAGES, ETC.

Of the millions of income-tax returns that are filed annually, the vast majority are from salaried persons and wage earners whose income is derived from personal services.

In general, compensation for personal services should be reported for taxation purposes in the year it is received or unqualifiedly made subject to demand. Compensation credited to the account of or set apart for a taxpayer, without any substantial limitation or restriction, and which may be drawn upon by him at any time, is subject to tax for the year during which so credited or set apart, although not then actually reduced to possession. If the services were rendered during the year 1934, or even prior thereto, but the compensation was not received, or made unqualifiedly subject to demand, by the taxpayer until the year 1935, the entire amount is taxable in 1935 when the taxpayer is reporting on the cash receipts and disbursements basis, which is the basis used by most individuals in reporting net income.

The number of all employees to whom payments of $1,000 or over a year are made must be reported by their employers. The information returns should be made on Form 1099, accompanied by transmittal Form 1098. These returns should be filed on or before February 15, 1940, with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Returns Distribution Section, Washington, D. C.

All of the various types of compensation, unless specifically exempt by statute, should be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income, such as salaries, wages, fees, commissions, bonuses, tips, honorariums, prizes, awards, retiring allowances for past services, etc. Where services are paid for in whole or in part with something other than money, the fair market value of the thing given in payment must be included as income. Other items subject to tax are fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, baptisms, marriages, and like services; executor's fees; directors' fees; jury fees; and prizes received in contests of various kinds.

The salaries of officers and employees of the United States, including the President, judges of courts of the United States, the Vice President, and Members of the House of Representatives and the United States Senate, are subject to income tax.

no estimate for parity payments, and the President said he did not know what Harrison was talking about.

The Chief Executive had no answer, other than a smile, when a newsman asked whether the press still would be coming up to Hyde Park with him next February.

That was just another attempt, as Lullie as numerous ones that had preceded it, to draw the President out on a third-term. His present term expires next Jan. 20.

Hope Is Revived by Farm Leaders

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Farm members took a growing confidence today into the critical stages of their house fight to avert a 51 per cent cut in agriculture department funds.

"The pendulum is swinging the other way," said Rep. Ferguson (D-Okla.). "The members are beginning to think that the appropriations committee has gone far toward recovery. It made the mistake of trying to do it all in one bill."

Ferguson and other farm leaders contended that a switch in sentiment manifested itself yesterday when they successfully sponsored a small increase in item in the agriculture appropriation bill. By a vote of 100 to 86, the house tentatively approved a $128,000 increase in a $108,000 fund for further experiments in dry-land farming.

The farm forces hoped for similar victories today on motions to add $144,000,000 to the $834,000,000 bill for farm tenant loans, sugar benefit payments, and disposal of surplus farm commodities.

Senators to whom house farm members look for help, meanwhile, renewed their pledges to try to reinstate whatever cuts the house finally adopts. Attempts to restore parity payments in the house have been abandoned because of the apparent desire to reduce federal expenditures and the fact that President Roosevelt did not recommend them.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) suggested that the senate could accept house cuts, eliminate $500,000,000 from pending defense programs, then examine the fiscal situation later in the session. He said congress could determine the amount of its savings all along the line and allocate them according to the needs of farmers and other elements.

The senate, meanwhile, took up the $1,138,694,528 appropriation bill for more than a score of independent federal agencies. Yesterday it passed a $87,541,300 deficiency bill authorizing money for naval armaments and tax refunds.

OHIOAN IS NAMED ON G. O. P. GROUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Representative Hope (R-Kns.), chairman of the house Republican committee on agriculture, appointed today a subcommittee to study farm credit.

Included in the 14 members is Rep. Clarence T. Brown (Ohio). The subcommittee's studies, Hope said, would include the providing of farm capital, farm interest rates and the "merits of demerits" of the recent executive action putting the farm credit administration under the secretary of agriculture.

LIFE OF COUNTY AGENT NOT EASY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBIUS, O.—(When you want an "iron man," just call a county agricultural agent.)

H. C. Ramsower, extension service director at Ohio State university, noting that three Ohio agents died and one collapsed last year, surveyed the work done by one agent and commented, "Being a federal employee engaged in county extension work is no holiday or any part of one."

Here's what the agent in a small county did in 1934: Had 2,400 employers (farmers); answered 3,679 telephone calls (nine ten-hour days spent in the instrument); 7,376 persons called at his office (61 days talked away); used 40 days writing personal and circular letters; wrote 424 stories for newspapers (10 more days gone); made six radio broadcasts; made 1,473 farm visits in answer to calls; spent a third of his time with the 250 members of boys and girls clubs and attended 280 night meetings.

P. S. He didn't have much time for horseshoe pitching.

MATING POULTRY

Poultry keepers who last year purchased hatching eggs or baby chicks should have no hesitations about mating together the males and females reared from such purchases. Many a valuable breeding male has made a Sunday dinner or been traded for a scrub cockerel because of unnecessary fear of inbreeding.—D. C. Warren, poultry husbandry, Kansas.

LONG COLD SPELL BRINGS WATER CRISIS

Many Cities in Ohio, W. Va. and Kentucky Affected.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 2.—Many cities and villages in the Ohio river basin today faced a limited water supply, the latest weather creation after one of the coldest January's on record.

The shortage was keenly felt in some communities. Frozen and broken mains necessitated hauling water in Beckley, W. Va., and Covington, Ky.

Officials of Parkersburg urged sparing use as the supply in city wells diminished.

Dry cisterns forced residents of Sherrard, near Wheeling, to depend on tank trucks. Water shortages were less serious in Henderson and Hopkinsville, Ky., Salem and New Martinsville, W. Va.

Health officers in Kentucky and West Virginia warned against the increased possibility of contamination. With mains broken over a wide area in Covington, residents were asked to use the utmost caution in handling fires.

D. K. Stout, Cincinnati weather observer, said the river stage of 10.6 feet here was the lowest since October 1935. January rainfall measured 1.27 compared to a normal 3.48 inches.

Figures for other areas showed similar comparisons and "the water shortage exists throughout the basin," Stout asserted, adding "heavy rains will be necessary to substantially increase the supply."

Wells were reported dry in many parts of northern Kentucky, forcing farmers to haul water for homes and livestock. Mild temperatures were said to have eased the shortage in some instances.

TRUCKER ARRESTED ON P. U. C. CHARGE

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Feb. 2.—Willis F. Branch, a driver for the Fireproof Storage and Van Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., was fined $100 and costs when arraigned before Mayor James P. Bennett here Thursday on a charge of not having authority to operate for hire on Ohio highways.

This was the second offense for Branch as he was arrested last June at Lima for a similar violation of the state law. The arresting officer in each case was Charles F. Burdick, investigator for the public utilities commission with headquarters at Marion.

Branch was not permitted to continue and his van load of furniture and household goods was transferred today to an Ohio trucker with authority to haul. He was enroute from Cleveland to Knoxville, Tenn.

JAP BEETLE HUNT WINS BY SIX VOTES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Six votes defeated the efforts of Rep. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) to "eradicate" the Japanese beetle hunter.

Asserting $345,000 is used "for the purpose of annoying people without doing any good," Bender sought to cut to $50,000 a proposed $395,000 fund for beetle extermination in the 1941 agriculture department bill.

He complained that inspection station officers "handle a few words" about transportation of vegetables, but fail to look into trucks of passing automobiles.

The vote on his proposed reduction of the fund was 42 to 48. Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R-Ohio) joined in an attempt to increase the fund for forest land acquisition in the bill.

COUNTY GAMES, HARDING TRIP TO GALION SET TONIGHT

Ten Teams in County League To See Action As Season Nears End.

Front and center of the local basketball stage will be taken over tonight entirely by scholastic teams competing for county honors. Marion Harding, still battling to hold a top division berth in the North Central Ohio conference, is off on another road trip, this time to neighboring Galion. Marion St. Mary, idle tonight, gets back into action tomorrow night by playing host to Ashley at the Marion Steam Shovel court.

Teams from 10 schools will be involved in tonight's county warfare, which brings the league down to the next to the last round of competition. The schedule closes one week hence and the following week boys' quintets of the county lift the lid on the 1940 tournament.

Claridon at Prospect
Claridon and Prospect are cast in leading roles for tonight's county game panorama. Coach A. B. Augenstein's unbeaten combine can sew up a slice of the 1940 flag with a successful invasion of the Prospect court. The pace-setters can assure themselves of nothing less than a co-championship, while a loss could put Pleasant within shooting distance of a clear claim to the crown.

Pleasant may encounter trouble at Waldo, but the defending champions are favored to win in what is expected to be a closely contested duel. In the event that both of the top squads come through their engagements successfully, they will move against each other next Friday, with Claridon holding a one-game lead. Then Claridon would need to stop their rivals to wear the crown alone, while a Pleasant victory would put the clubs side by side as they pass the finish mark.

Other County Games
Other county league programs on deck tonight take Morrell to LaRue, Kirkpatrick to Calcutta, and Meeker to Martel. Green Camp, not active in the circuit.

JOHN CARROLL BEATS DENISON, ADVANCES IN OHIO STANDINGS

Ohio Northern Overcomes Heidelberg at Ada by 51 to 44 Score.

By The Associated Press
John Carroll nestled among the leaders of the Ohio basketball race today as a result of a 38 to 32 victory over Denison.

The triumph was the eighth in 11 games for the Cleveland club and its second Ohio conference decision in three starts. Miami topped the statewide standings with 9 and 1.

The game was tied five times in the first half, but the Blue Streaks left the court with a 19 to 17 edge. The victors clinched the verdict in the final five minutes.

Jack Jones, Denison sophomore guard, tallied 11 points, and John Freedman, Carroll forward, 10.

Ohio Northern handed Heidelberg its eighth consecutive conference defeat by winning at Ada, 51 to 44. The Polar Bears, posting their fifth victory in eight league contests, were on top at intermission, 31 to 10.

Hiram held Kent State to 24 in the first half, but faltered in the late periods as the Flashers marked up their seventh decision, 47 to 35. Max Conner, Akron guard, paced the Kent scoring with 12 points, and Wilfred Day, Hiram center, had 10.

Penn was unable to protect a 13 to 12 half-time lead in its game in Cleveland against Detroit Tech and lost, 34 to 27. DeSales shined Lawrence Tech of Detroit, 43 to 42, to take the lead in the Michigan-Ohio conference.

BEST U. S. WOMEN GOLFERS IN MATCH

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 2.—Having recovered somewhat from the terrible near-freezing temperatures of last week-end, the citizens of Miami and their winter visitors were out in warm sunshine today to follow what promised to be one of the best women's golf matches in recent years.

Meeting in the 36-hole final of the annual Miami Biltmore tournament were Betty Jameson of San Antonio, the national champion, and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, four-time previous winner of this event. The match carried exceptional interest.

After some years of development, the two girls now apparently have reached the peak of their form. Without much doubt, they are the best in the country. Some veteran lookers at women's golf believe they are the best pair, day in and day out, that this country ever has produced.

State To Protect Spawning Bass In Some Areas; No Ban on Spring Fishing

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—The state conservation department will hang "no fishing" signs this spring in certain areas where bass spawn.

Location of the zones and duration of the ban will be determined later by the conservation and natural resources commission, which yesterday turned down a proposal to protect spawning by forbidding all spring fishing.

The daily bag limit on black bass and trout was raised from five to six, but the limit on yellow pike perch was cut from eight to six, not less than 13 inches long.

Recognizing many complaints regarding trout lines, the commission set the maximum number of hooks on a single line at 30, separated at least three feet. Trout lines were prohibited in lakes and immediately below dams.

Other commission decisions included:

Daily creel limit on crappies cut from 25 to 20; five-inch limit on bluegills removed; employment of chemical engineer to confer with industrial and municipal officials on pollution abatement; $2,200 appropriated for research on upstream migration, dams and spawning on Muskingum river; land purchase completed for Kiser lake in Champaign county.

Motor driven ice boats permitted on state-owned lakes larger than 400 acres; distinguishing marking on game protectors' automobiles ordered; ban on motor boats planned in state-owned lakes under construction or to be built later.

Other regulations will be considered March 13.

DYKES HOPING FOR FEW TIFFS IN 1940

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, whose controversies with umpires last season resulted in his being tossed from six games, suspended once and fined twice, announced today he's fully prepared for the 1940 campaign.

"In addition to holding a firm resolution to be thrown out of not more than four games next season," Dykes said, "I'm now in possession of a very valuable document. Whenever an umpire comes charging up to me I'll just throw up one hand, whip this card out of my pocket and calmly say: 'Just a minute now, Mister Umpire.'"

The card attests that James J. Dykes is an honorary member in good standing of the Professional Baseball Umpires' association of Southern California.

Heads Wag Over Hank's Shift To Outfield

By HILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK—It is not unusual for a young ball player to be shifted around from one position to another, but it is rare for an established star to be forced or persuaded to switch to another post.

That is why there is quite a bit of interest attached to Hank Greenberg's move from first base to the outfield. You can bet that Greenberg didn't want to make the change. He has been fighting against it for several years. But the Detroit club finally got him in a spot where he couldn't say no again.

Detroit has two of the heaviest bombardiers in baseball in Greenberg and Rudy York. Both are first basemen. Hank was an established star when Rudy came up from the minors. Hank didn't want to move and so the Tigers tried Rudy at various spots. York was a defensive liability but he could hit.

Greenberg Stumps
Last summer Greenberg didn't have such a good season. That is, good for Greenberg. It would have been considered a swell year for the majority of big leaguers but it was quite a drop from Hank's great 1938 season. So Detroit probably thought it had a good reason to take a check at Greenberg's salary. It is likely that Hank had to agree to the outfield job in order to hang on to his present salary, one of the highest.

His switch likely will strengthen the Tigers, for it will enable them to have the York and Greenberg power in the batting order at the same time. And, defensively, York will not be so much of a problem at first base. Furthermore, the Tigers will be stronger behind the plate with George Tibbets replacing York.

While it appears a good move for the Tigers it is quite a gamble for Greenberg personally. He has spent many years learning how to play first base. He ranks among the best all-around first-sackers in the majors.

Old Dog New Tricks?
Now, at a fairly advanced baseball age, he has to learn a new position. The outfield, with its larger territory to cover, takes more out of a ball player's legs and may serve to shorten Hank's major league career.

Hank's arm is accustomed to the comparatively short heaves around the infield and it will take him some months to get accustomed to the longer pegs. Then there's the matter of learning the correct base to throw to under all conditions. Hank will find that he'll have to master a new method of fielding grounders. It will be interesting to watch him acclimate himself to his new surroundings.

GALAXY OF TRACK STARS PREPARE FOR MILLROSE EVENTS

Madison Square Garden Contests To Match Holders of Various Titles.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Any aspiring trackmen facing the starter at the Millrose Games Saturday who doesn't own a championship of some sort will be about as well-off as a spectator who doesn't own a ticket.

The big meet that opens the Madison Square Garden season—this is the 33rd renewal of the event—has an entry list studded with champions of all descriptions, and a finer field would be hard to imagine.

The Wanamaker mile is the feature. Entered are Glenn Cunningham, six-time winner and holder of the world indoor mile mark; Charles Fenske, the Princeton mile winner; Louis Zamperini, NCAA and IC-4A champion; Gene Venzke, former winner; Blaine Riedout, national and outdoor 1500-meter champion, and Les MacMicheil, IC-4A cross country winner.

But the shorter races also boast their share of titlists. World sprint record co-holders Ben Johnson and Herbert Thompson must face such goers as Eulace Peacock, 100-meter record holder, and Kenny Clapp, IC-4A indoor champ, among others.

Allan Tolmich and Larry O'Connor, 60-yard high hurdle record-makers, head a field that includes Marsh Farmer, national junior outdoor titleholder, and Jay Shields IC-4A indoor champ.

Charlie Beetham, the national 600 king, should get a real test from Jimmy Herbert, who holds the indoor world mark. Sanford Goldberg, the flying fireman who is the "Met" 1,000-yard champion, and Wesley Wallace, the 500-meter king.

The 440-yards just as promising with John Quigley of Princeton and Sugar Bowl game meeting Erwin Miller, NCAA and national A.A.U. champion; Harley Howells, Big Ten indoor champ, and Warren Breidenbach, Big Ten outdoor champ.

EXAMINATIONS HIT BIG TEN CAGERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—All the precincts haven't been heard from but the outcome of mid-term examinations may have a profound effect on the Big Ten basketball race.

Deficient grades have removed three players each from the squads at Illinois and Wisconsin, including a regular on each team.

The Badgers lost Bob Schwartz of Madison, varsity forward who ranks seventh in individual scoring with 41 points. Bob Sims, second string guard and Bob Nelson, reserve forward. Another player, Lester Sander, sophomore center, has left school.

Illinois lost Bob Richmond, regular guard; Bob O'Neill, second string center and Red Sherman, sophomore forward. All failed to make the scholastic grade.

Angelo and Williams To Don Glove for Grudge Fight at Shovel Monc

Two Grunters Will Settle Dispute with Slug! Wagner-Hager Bout Scheduled.

Leather-covered clenched fists will replace oratorical ammunition when two knights of the ring collide in a special 10-round slugfest headlining Monday night's fight card at the Marion Steam Shovel arena.

Martino (Kaye) Angelo of Butte, N. Y., and Al (Killer) Williams of Chicago, Ill., will do the honors in the leather-slinging match. They've hurled harsh words at each other since their grappling duel last Monday, and will don regulation prize ring gloves to settle their differences.

Angelo was the official victor in their earlier meeting, but Williams at least had the consolation that the majority of fans agreed he was the victim of circumstance. The gayly tattooed former U. S. Navy champion, would have been the last to concede that he was beaten.

Fate Gives Him Jolt
He was counted down in the first round when the shoulders of both grapplers were on the mat. Then ill fate gave him another jolt when he was floored by Referee Tom Temple as the latter separated the fighters.

Williams squawked loud and long over the outcome. Angelo, no more a novice at spouting oratory than he is in the wrestling ring, took up Williams' challenge for an "anything goes" scrap.

The bout will be staged as the final attraction on the contest program, which includes a regulation 90-minute wrestling match and a 20-minute opener.

MAC PHAIL BLASTS LANDIS FOR BULLETIN AFFECTING FARMS

Says Grave Damage to Minors Will Result Unless Ruling Is Modified.

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, Feb. 2 — The present farm situation in baseball, in the opinion of President Larry MacPhail, is one of "seemingly hopeless confusion."

And if something isn't done about it in a hurry, he said in a blast at Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the game's high commissioner, during a speech at the Boston Baseball Writers' dinner last night, "the minors may be ruined and years required to repair the damage."

Labeling Landis "a bush league" in comparison to John Brown, the great abolitionist, MacPhail declared he had received telegrams from "the presidents of 15 minor leagues that indicate that there is grave doubt whether they can operate unless the commissioner's recent bulletin is modified."

Brown, he said, had to raid Harper's Ferry to free a few slaves, while Landis released 90-odd baseball serfs from bondage with a stroke of the pen, following this act with a 7-point manifesto wiping out nine farm systems and about 100 working agreements.

"In a nutshell, it (the commissioner's plan) would abolish all farm systems, working agreements and options, set up a universal draft and prevent all clubs from acquiring players beyond their immediate needs, thereby making the supply as freely available to the Browns as to the Yankees," the colorful Dodger chieftain asserted.

"In the matter of Judge Landis vs. the farm system, he sits as prosecutor, judge and jury, and there is no appeal. Either he is dealing out justice or he is engaging in a 'witch hunt' in which the innocent will be burning along with the guilty," he added.

ACT TO KEEP COACH AT UPPER SANDUSKY

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 2 — A move is under way here to retain Fred C. Pierson, as head football coach at Upper Sandusky high school. Pierson's resignation was accepted Monday night at a meeting of the school board, after he had received an offer to coach at Tiltonville on an increase in salary of $560. He asked the local board an increase of $300 to remain here, but was refused. Attorney A. K. Hall, president of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting of that body Wednesday evening, declared that Pierson would stay here.

Tragedy's Children Find Place To Play

"A neighbor took away one of his blocks."

NEW YORK — The foot-top looked pretty much like any New York City nursery school playground. The same brightly-colored barrels, the same two-by-fours propped up as alldes, and the same hollow boxes.

At first glance, the children looked very much the same, too. They raced up and down, squabbling over whose box was whose. One child, hammering away on a stick of wood, hit his finger and burst into howls. It might be any nursery school.

But there was a difference. Several children wore shoes of unmistakable foreign make. Another had a cap with a long tassel. A little boy wore a leather waistcoat and leather hunting cap.

These were not American children, whose parents paid several hundred dollars to send them to nursery school, but refugee children—Germans and Austrians and Czechs, brand-new arrivals in the United States.

Here A Few Weeks
Many of the 30 children who come daily to this nursery school, which is sponsored by the United Order of True Sisters and supervised by the New York Kindergarten Association, have been in this country only a few weeks. They come to the nursery school because their parents are working, and they can't be left at home alone.

Most of them know no English when they come. But they understand directions in English, and their teachers use English as much as possible.

Don't Throw That Away.
